Prof. Davenport Stays!

Within the past few weeks, Wesleyan extended a call to Prof. Davenport. We are glad to announce, however, that the invitation to become a member of Wesleyan faculty has not been accepted, and that Prof. Davenport has elected to stay here.

His decision is but one more illustration of the true Hamilton spirit and a manifestation of the deep regard, not only her own, but her adopted sons, feel for "the little College on the Hill."

To say that the student body appreciates the generous motives that prompted him to stay with us would be putting it mildly. Every one who is interested in the welfare of Hamilton rejoices in the knowledge that we are still to have the benefits of his service. Though he has not been here long, he has created a place that would be hard for another to fill.

Nothing could show more emphatically his sincere interest in this College than the fact that, although called to serve his Alma Mater, he is to remain here. We feel that the step he has just taken will bind him even closer to the interests of Hamilton.

Having such a man as Prof. Davenport connected with the faculty is a great advertisement for Hamilton. In the class-room, in the social events, and in athletics, we have in him a staunch supporter.

The announcement of his intention to remain with us is most welcome news, and while we recognize that he will receive liberal offers from other colleges, we trust that he may see fit to stay with us for some time to come. Hamilton is to be congratulated.

To-Day's Game.

This afternoon at 3:30 the baseball team plays the team from Auburn Theological Seminary. Haven will do the twirling for Hamilton, otherwise the team will be the same as last Saturday. Bramley will act as umpire.

Auburn's team is composed of former collegians with Joe Hunter, Hamilton, '03, as captain. Their record thus far this season indicates that we will have to play ball to win. The fact that they beat the George Junior Republic team by a score of 14 to 2, shows that they play a strong game. The manager and team need support. Everyone should be present at the game.

U. F. A. vs. Hamilton.

The baseball season opened on the Hill last week by a defeat at the hands of the U. F. A. Whether such an opening will be favorable to the success of the team, or whether the reverse will be true depends largely on the way they receive and profit by it.

The game itself was not spectacular, nor wildly interesting. A cold wind helped to keep the play moving slowly and kept the ardor of the spectators below the boiling point.

Utica arrived about three o'clock, bringing their much renowned pitcher, "Midget" Taylor. After a little preliminary practice Utica went to bat and Judson threw up the first ball. Taylor bunted and Judson threw him out at first in a way that caused every one to think the game was won. The side was retired quickly and the Hamilton batters went out in one, two, three order. In the next inning Loveland got on third and on an unfortunate wild pitch by Judson he scored the winning run. Thereafter the game became uneventful, except when Cody came to bat. "Bill" was the only man who could find Taylor with any surety, and out of four chances he raked in three hits. Rynd got two hits and the rest of the men, with the exception of Haggerson, stood up by the plate and made futile motions. In the eighth inning we had the bases full with one out, and our batters then fanned when a little bit of a single would have meant a tied game at least.

To Judson's credit it may be said he pitched a good game, although a little erratic at times. For his first appearance he did well. The men in general played a clean and snappy fielding game and their throwing was generally good. Their batting was the weak point and the coach is expected to correct that. We have good material, a good coach, and we have had a lesson; now it is up to us. The line up:

Coach Watson Arrives.

Coach Watson arrived on the Hill last Monday. We are all glad to have him with us once more. The fact that he is here and working with the athletic team gives the College confidence as well as the men who are working on track and field. It makes us feel that training and practice has begun in earnest and that things in general will move along in a more successful and satisfactory way. Under his coaching baseball practice will be held every afternoon as it has this week. Instead of having the track men all at once every man has a special time at which he appears. With this arrangement the coach is able to give the men more individual attention. Once a week the men are all out together and the different events are run off for time. Though here but a week Coach Watson has made his time count and both the track and baseball teams are rapidly rounding into shape. We believe that his services in the spring sports will be as valuable as they were in those of the fall and winter.

D. T. Entertained.

The D. T's were busy again last week at the request of Judson and Haggerson at the "Sig." Hall. The edict went about early in the week that there was to be something doing Friday night, and in consequence, on that unlucky night about 7:30, ghostly figures were seen wandering toward the rendezvous. After being admitted to the mystic circle, the crowd gathered in the smoking room and "talked business" for a while. Then they talked about other things. Finally the crowd dissolved into two groups, one of which played bridge, and the other pursued the elusive ivory sphere about the felt covered table, (alias, pool). At the bridge department "Ben." Roseboom and "Phoebe" Williams distinguished themselves by losing about 408 points apiece in thirty-two minutes. The final reports of the pool game have not yet been announced. Haggerson then appeared on the scene adorned with a plate of ice-cream, and soon the fellows were all served. Two great cakes and some more ice cream went the way of all good eatables. After a smoke and a sing (?) the fellows reluctantly broke away to bohn a "math" review. Of course they had a good time.

Senior Executive Committee.

The Senior Executive Committee met Tuesday morning after chapel. Bennett was made chairman. The banner committee reported that the class banner was ready and would be on the Chapel wall in the near future. The banquet committee was then appointed, consisting of Bennett, MacDonald and Sicard. Driscoll, Clark and Benedict compose the music committee.

Wednesday morning another meeting was held. The officers for Campus Day were nominated as follows: President, Heacock; Orator, Maynard; Poet, Kinney, Ivy Orator, Purdy; Junior Response, Grossmeyer; Sophomore, Williams; Freshman, McLean.

The following men were nominated as officers for Class Day: President, Barrows; Orator, Stryker; Prophet, Melrose; Historian, Edgerton; Poet, Drummond. McDonald, Crawford and Sicard compose the presentation committee. Because of a dearth of worthy candidates no one was nominated to receive the square. These nominations will come before the class this noon.

Oldest Graduate Dies.

Last week occurred the death of Daniel Huntington, '36, who was the only living member of that class and the oldest graduate of Hamilton, being in his 90th year. He was stricken with paralysis about a month ago. The effects of the stroke, with the infirmities of age, caused his death. He was the oldest artist of note in New York City. The Sun says of him: "For many years he was almost invariably selected as the artist whenever an organization or the city or state wished a portrait of some official or prominent citizen, and many examples of his work are to be found in the city and state buildings, in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, and in various libraries and institutions of learning. Critics said of him that the conspicuous merit of his portraits lay in their truth and simplicity.

"Mr. Huntington was a native New Yorker. He was born on October 14, 1816, a son of Benjamin H. and Faith Trumbull Huntington; both of whose ancestors were among the early settlers in Connecticut and were prominent in the government and affairs of that state and in the war of the Revolution.

"Daniel Huntington was a graduate of Hamilton College, and there he became acquainted with Charles L. Elliott, from whom he imbibed his love of art. Leaving college, he studied art in the studio of Prof. Samuel F. B. Morse, who was then president of the National Academy of Design, and later Mr. Huntington was a pupil of Inman. He produced, while a young man, several paintings that were appreciated, and he decided to adopt painting as his life work. Two of his earliest paintings to attract attention were 'A Bar Room Politician' and 'A Toper Asleep.' In 1836 he spent several months in the Highlands of the Hudson, where he painted views near Verplancke's, the Dunderberg Mountain and Rondout Creek. Three years later he went to Rome to study, and while there he painted his 'Florentine Girl' and 'Early Christian Prisoners' in 1839 and 'The Shepherd Boy of the Campagna' in 1840.

"Returning from abroad in 1846, he began to devote himself more and more to portraits and soon attained a prominent place among the artists of this country, although he still found time to do other work.

"His portrait of Abraham Lincoln is owned by the Union League Club and New York University has his likeness of Chancellor Ferris, while the New York Historical Society has his portrait of Sir Charles Eastlake and the Earl of Carlisle. His portrait of President Van Buren is in the State Library in Albany; the Lenox Library owns his likeness of James Lenox, and in the City Hall are pictures of Mayors Duane, Varick and Livingston which are the work of his brush. Gens. Grant, Sherman and Sheridan sat for him, as did Admiral Dupont, Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes, Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, John Sherman, William Cullen Bryant, William E. Dodge, William H. Appleton, Robert C. Winthrop, Bishop Potter, John A. Dix and many other well known New Yorkers, about forty of whose portraits are in the collection of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

"In spite of his advanced age, Mr. Huntington continued at work until a few weeks ago, and when he was 80 years old it was said that he painted as well as ever. His last portrait was completed last December and is now in the New York Yacht Club."

Vol. VIII. SATURDAY, APR. 28, 1906. No 27.

THE GENEROSITY DISPLAYED by the College last Sunday when a collection was taken for the sufferers of San Francisco is most commendable. The college was quick to see that there was urgent need of help and the response to Dr. Stryker's request was more general and generous than was expected. Such a contribution is symbolical of the sympathetic and fraternal spirit that is so characteristic of the American people. To alleviate the suffering in San Francisco there have been raised from every part of the country enormous funds. Colleges, churches, institutions of all kinds have given generously. We are glad that Hamilton is able to take part in aiding these unfortunate fellow countrymen.

THE MANAGER OF FOOTBALL has done well in engaging Mr. Halliday to coach the team next fall. The facts that his father is a Hamilton man and that he would have been if the fever scare of 1902 had not driven him hence, should operate to increase his interest in the college and its athletics. His record at Cornell as a superior man on the gridiron is unquestionable. With a strong personality and a broad knowledge of the game he is sure to be an excellent coach for us. As is well known the material for next fall will be for the most part green and undeveloped. To turn out a winning team the man who does the coaching will have to work hard, and in Mr. Halliday we believe that we have a coach equal to the occasion.

THE OUTCOME OF THE GAME last Saturday was an unhappy disappointment to the College. Naturally both teams expected that we would win by a good margin, as did everyone on the Hill. We ought to have won, and that we did not was most unfortunate considering the fact that the team was lined up against no more than a "prep." school nine. It did not take close observation to see just where we were weak. Simply the men couldn't hit the young Utica pitcher. He threw a swift, straight ball—just the kind that a good batter is glad to stand up before. Some of the men who had the highest batting average last season were unable to find the ball even when to have done so meant a score. Obviously what the team needs is hard practice at the bat and before a good pitcher. There are some strong potential batters on the team and practice under efficient coaching ought to strengthen things considerably. The work of this week will probably show good results today.

DR. SQUIRES' REMARKS as published in this issue of LIFE seem to intimate that too much attention is given to athletics here at Hamilton. He asserts that an undue amount of money is expended in the management of the different teams which might much better be used for other purposes, such as increasing the number of books in the College Library or in adding more men to the faculty. We believe that more money might be fittingly spent in both of these ways; but we do not believe that it should be obtained by curtailing the now moderate expenses of athletics. With possibly one exception it can not be justly said that we have been extravagant. True, things are run so that the treasury is seldom overloaded, but it is not often in the hole. The students and faculty support athletics generously, as they should. The Alumni also are generous in their support. And why should they not be? Some Alumni are interested in our athletics, while others take an interest in adding to the Library or in bettering the general equipment of the College. Those who contribute to athletics are helping a good cause, and one which should not be discouraged. Here at Hamilton no branch of athletics is overestimated in importance. This cannot be said of some of the larger colleges and universities; but it can be said of Hamilton. We have as near the ideal as possible. No men are hired to come here because of their ability, nor can a man stay unless his work is up to standard. Professionalism of no kind is countenanced by either faculty or student body. The sports exist and are encouraged for sport's sake and for what good there is in them. If we turn out a winning team from what material there is at hand, well and good. If the team loses, it at least knows how to take a defeat.

We do not know that the faculty intend to taboo any branch of athletics. However, such is the rumor. We trust that there is no truth in it for we believe that athletics are now in their proper place at Hamilton. Any action on the part of the faculty to relegate basket-ball or any other sport enjoyed on this Hill would be considered by the student body as entirely unwarranted.

Athletics in Jeopardy?

The report recently published in one of the Utica papers to the effect that the faculty of Hamilton College had determined to cut out basket-ball as a first step toward shutting down on athletics elicited the following statement from Dr. Squires in an interview:

Speaking in no official capacity, Dr. Squires said that Hamilton College was now face to face with the proposition, What shall be done with athletics? and that in this position she was not alone, but only a part of a very general movement among colleges all through the country to retrench in their position as to athletics, and to relegate them to their proper place. He said that the faculty of Hamilton College was decidedly pro-athletic.

"There are men," said Dr. Squires, "who play football, then basket-ball, baseball, work on the track and play tennis, so that athletics is made the whole purpose of their college course, and the short time when they are not playing the game they are talking about it, so that the time comes at graduation, when one man has gone through with high honor, and another who on account of his athletics has just managed to get through. The question then arises whether we ought to give to each man the same diploma."

Taking up the financial side of college athletics, Dr. Squires made a severe denunciation of present methods. "There was a time," he said, "when we held our track meets and athletic contests here on the hill, and invitations were sent out, and people came and were entertained upon the Campus, saw what was going on, and felt after they had gone as though they had been visiting. That is all changed now. The question becomes one of how shall we get them here in order to extract twenty-five or fifty cents from them." This evil he attributed to the large running expenses of college athletics. "And what is the use of all this athletic business anyway? What advertising do we get out of it? It never brought a single man to this College. Think what the $5,000, which this College spends each year for athletics, would do if it were spent in establishing fifty new scholarships. With it I could add 300 men to this college in a year. Or on the other hand it would pay the salaries of two or three teachers, or might be devoted to increasing the library."

This raised the question of the single athletic tax which has been urged lately by LIFE, intending to do away with the present method of student subscriptions. Dr. Squires flat-footedly announced that such an arrangement would never be put in force. "The College is beyond that. It is time also that an end be put to asking the alumni for subscriptions for athletic purposes."

Dr. Squires would not deny that basket-ball might be allowed to go. In reply to a question as to why basket-ball should be the storm center, he said that when the game was introduced into the college in 1899, it was expressly promised that it would not ask for "cuts" for out-of-town trips. "That agreement has not been kept. The basket-ball management a year or two ago asked for this privilege, and the faculty granted it, and the same thing occurred this year."

College Notes.

—"Nelse" Drummond, '02, was on the Hill Saturday and Sunday.

—Claude Anibal, of Gloversville, visited Anibal, '08, over Sunday.

—Is there to be a Sophomore-Freshman baseball game this spring?

—Bramley, '06, is to coach the Rochester East High School football team next fall.

—Carruth, ex-'07, ex-'08, the reported new Freshman, has not as yet materialized.

—A business-like pile of lumber has appeared on the site of the old Chi Psi lodge.

—Plumb has been elected captain and Getman manager of the Freshman baseball team.

—E. J. Weekes, and H. O. White, '08, have been added to the list of Sophomore Stab.

—"Bill" Mahady has refused further credit to those who are still in arrears from last term.

—Utica Free Academy, having beaten the 'Varsity, refuses to play our irrepressible "Job Lots."

—Thus far, "Square" has succeeded in tripping up but one of those triangle sharks carried over from last term. Five still remain.

—The Freshman Frolic committee has decided to hold to precedent and have the dance on the night of K. P.

—Haven, '06, had to play spectator last week owing to an attack of pink-eye. He is back in the game now.

—The tennis management has arranged for a match with Syracuse the Wednesday after Interscholastic Day.

—After tomorrow, the Sophomore and Freshman Bible class will be discontinued, a mission study class taking their places.

—"Wardie" pulled a long face the other day and said our country is rapidly becoming treeless. Fie upon you, "Prexie."

—Owing to the recent announcement of Commencement speakers and K. P. orators, the College has enjoyed a season of set-ups.

—Prof. Davenport's speech at the Utica Commercial Club was the subject of a half page discussion in the Utica Sunday Tribune.

—Six Freshmen are out on the track with managerial aspirations. The list includes Appleton, Bryant, Busfield, Butler, Evans and Hopkins.

—"Schnitz" intends to excuse those who have not been absent or have not answered "unprepared," from the formal review in Sophomore Dutch.

—There should be a wire above the baseball backstop. It would save many a trip behind and a rummage in the weeds for the errant foul tips.

—The latest adjunct of Hamilton science is "Slip" Heacock's motor, which took a party of embryo geologists to Oriskany Falls to pound rock.

—The unseemly ash pile between North and Carnegie has been converted into a respectable path. We still hope for something on top of the ashes.

—The faculty has approved the following track schedule: Interscholastic Day, May 10; St. Lawrence Dual Meet, May 19; Intercollegiate Meet, May 30.

—When "Prex" spoke of the many half-dollars that go, we know not where, it would be interesting to know if he was thinking of the fines on the last term bills.

—Smith and Joralemon, '08, ran a mile in 5.05 Wednesday. The day was extremely cold and windy, making the showing a very fair one so early in the season. This was the first half of the two-mile.

—Forty prize essays have been handed in by the three under classes. This number far exceeds any previous showing. They have been sent away to the various judges.

—The Freshman class still maintains its interest in the class prayer meeting, and at the first meeting of the term had a larger attendance than at any preceding one.

—Floyd Risley, the Colgate-Pennsylvania-Syracuse track star, has been practising on the Campus during the week. He is to re-enter Pennsylvania next fall.

—Last Saturday noon "Carnegie" experienced her first April showers of the year at the hands of "Tom" Sherman and "Keck" Holley. George Sicard played the role of rain-barrel.

—The following men have been appointed as an entertainment committee for Interscholastic Day: Peck, Hoyt, Gilbert, E. C. Day, Rynd, Massee, Dunham, Schwartz, Elsea, and Mansfield.

—With five Freshmen running after fouls, carrying bats, etc., the diamond has assumed an almost metropolitan aspect. Up to date the slate stands: Getman, Kneeland, Love, Thomas and Truax.

—The Freshmen have under consideration quite an ambitious schedule for their baseball team. Rome, Ilion, Camden, Lowville, Clinton, Utica and Colgate Freshmen are among the teams proposed.

—The advertising managers have awakened. A daily sight in Utica these days is a well-fed Junior with a couple of Hamiltonians under his arm and a business-getting smile on his face. It's Eb. Hoyt.

—Osborne, '09, on being censured by "Wardie" for having poorly read a lesson in review, responded that he had not been present at the last recitation. "Wardie" thanked him for having corrected his record.

—A training table for the baseball team has been started at Commons. Twelve men now eat there. Ferris, Haven, LeMunyan, and Sherman, '06, Brown, Rynd, '07, Clark, Cody, Haggerson, Judson, Smith and White, '08.

—The reappearance of Dr. Nichols in his Chapel seat after his long absence was the occasion of much handshaking among his professional brethren. It seemed good to see him back, although most of us were not privileged to say so.

—The baseball management expects to get out the season tickets by next Saturday. The posters that are being planned for the team are quite elaborate affairs, having in addition to the usual characteristics a design of balls and bats.

—A certain pair of crutches, the off one with a skilfully mended femur, bids fair to become a college fixture. McCarthy sported them first, then Gilbert, and now McMartin is carrying his injured knees around with their aid. Next!

—Day, '07, who lives only sixteen miles from San Francisco, received his first news from home since the disaster, on Thursday. His people suffered no harm, but the seminary buildings at San Anselmo were considerably injured by the shock.

—A new pedestrian club has been organized consisting, as yet, of but three members: Miller, '06, Joralemon, '08, and Katzanstein, '09. Sunday they beat the ties to Rome, and Wednesday they tramped their weary way across the fields to Sauquoit.

—The Sophomore "Dead English" class indulged in a rendition of "The Poor Old Man" before entering Bib's room the other day. Bib immediately took the song to himself, also took offense, and rather forcibly told them not to sing about their "teacher" in the hall.

—Colgate students tried to break up the Morgan medicine show at Hamilton Monday evening. They threw torpedoes, appropriated the piano, resisted arrest, had a college sing, and finally ended up in a hot row with the "townies." They evidently craved excitement, and got what they were looking for.

—What "Square" calls the perversity of inanimate objects is well instanced in the Library building, which through the cold days of winter maintained freezing weather and now with the balmy spring warms up to about ninety degrees in the shade of its ponderous tomes. By the way, the first gallery will henceforth be known as the "Morgue," as all of the dead languages have been assigned to that place.

New Course in Y. M. C. A.

A new and especially interesting study course is being planned for this term. In addition to taking up a new book of unusual present interest, an innovation will be made in holding a union class for the entire College, in place of the regular class studies of the past term. The course of study will cover only five lessons and will deal with "The Social Evils of Non-Christian Nations," a book highly recommended. Although the work is to be under the charge of the Mission Study Committee, it will be of very general interest, outside of its direct mission appeal. The class will be led by a Senior, and will include members from all the College classes. An urgent invitation is extended to all. The work will be begun on the first Sunday of May, and in the meantime every effort will be made to make the class a success. All who have been enrolled in any of the mission or Bible study classes in the past should interest themselves in the new undertaking. Although the plan is a new one and an experiment, great things are expected from it, and the cooperation of every man in college is invited.

K. P. Orations.

Though the names of the K. P. orators were published in LIFE last week, the subjects upon which each is to speak were carelessly omitted. They are as follows: Barrows, on "Christopher Marlowe"; Edie, on "Goethe To-day"; Haven, on "The Assimilation of Races by America"; McLean, on "Tragedy, the Literature of Conscience"; Purdy, on "The Assimilation of Races by America"; and Stryker on "Thomas Payne, an Apostle of Liberty".
